++ Valid for broadcast between 1800 and 0600

Headline:
Rain overnight, possibly turning to snow for a time.

This Evening and Tonight:
After a mostly dry evening, a band of persistent and at times heavy rain will arrive from the west, potentially turning wintry even to low levels briefly. Winds will strengthen overnight. Cold, with a risk of ice patches. Minimum temperature -3 deg C (27 deg F).

Saturday:
Overnight rain and hill snow will clear eastwards by midday leaving scattered showers behind. A few sunny spells are possible later. There remains a risk of ice, especially at first. Maximum temperature 8 deg C (46 deg F).

Outlook for Sunday to Tuesday:
Mostly dry with sunny spells on both Sunday and Monday, with overnight showers between. Stronger winds and outbreaks of rain, perhaps heavy, arrive during Monday evening and continue through Tuesday.
